Story Time at Home

Title/Author: Jamberry written and illustrated by Bruce Degen

WHILE You Are Reading with Your Child

-A lot of the words end in "berry". Play around with the other words and say them with "berry" on the end. Make the words sound silly.

-Berry begins with the letter B. Talk to your child about what sound the letter B makes. See if they can find the letter as the story is read.

AFTER Reading with Your Child

Do the Dishes

1. In the story, the kids help clean the dishes. Fill a container with some gentle soap and luke warm water.

2. Give your child a few plastic pieces of dishes and a sponge or wash cloth.

3. Show your child the picture in the book where the children are helping to wash dishes. Encourage your child to wash the dishes in the container.

4. You could also use something to safely boost your child to the kitchen sink to help wash the dishes.

This is an easy and helpful sensory experience!

Wagon Collections

1. The children in the book use a wagon to collect things outside to bring home. If this is something you can do outside, great! If not, here is a way to do something similar inside.

2. Get a large box, storage tote, or laundry basket.

3. Encourage your child to push the box around the house, collecting toys or other items they have access to.

4. Once they are done collecting, have them bring the box to you to show you what they collected.

This activity supports their physical and cognitive development.
